9. As far as possible, the scientific terminology used in the international world should be employed, but where there is no 'international' terminology, words from the Indian languages should be adopted.

10. The Central Government should set up immediately a Board representative of philologists, scientists and language experts to work out a dictionary of scientific terminology for all modern Indian languages. This Board should be a permanent body, and should work in consultation with the Provinces and Universities. The work should be completed within a period of five years. The Central Government may be asked to allot a substantial sum for the purpose so that the work may start immediately.

11. The Central Government should give a lead to the Provinces in getting text-books in science subjects in Federal language prepared which the Provinces may be able to adopt in their own language. Text-books on other subjects should be prepared either by the University or Inter-University Board or the Provincial Government; Central Government should help them out of difficulties by financial assistance.

12. The Central Government should examine in all its bearings the question of extra-territorial jurisdiction of the various Universities in order to help in the solution of the language problem of linguistic minorities within a Province or State.

13. Federal Service examinations may be conducted through the language of the region, but candidates who are accepted by Government should be required to pass a test in the Federal language and to take a further training in that language.
